FORM 990, PART III

Health Policy:

ASHA's Washington office works to secure sound policy responses to the sexually transmitted infection (STI) epidemic in the areas of prevention, treatment, diagnostics, and education through efforts with policymakers and national organizations. We oppose punitive education initiatives and those that limit access to appropriate STI services. ASHA's Health Policy efforts address a range of policy issues at the federal level. Appropriations for STI control efforts are vital, and ASHA's Washington Office has long been a focal point for STI advocacy. ASHA's key relationships with colleague organizations, federal agencies, and project related pharmaceutical efforts are developed and sustained through our policy office. These efforts have been fully funded since ASHA opened its DC office in 1999.

Cervical cancer prevention and HPV vaccine promotion (funded by pharmaceutical companies) have been highly visible components of our policy work in the last few years. We continue to find important opportunities in this area for credibility, policy analysis, and advocacy for funding. Advocacy for appropriate policy and public health messages around condoms and support for comprehensive sexual health education is also funded. We also work to integrate STI, HIV and pregnancy prevention programs and seek to identify potential new areas for organization attention.

Consumer Communication/Education:

ASHA operates a state-of-the-art call center providing compassionate, one-on-one services to thousands of individuals. ASHA has been a major provider of health related telephone hotline services since 1979 and currently operates several independent contract services:

Sexually Transmitted Infection Resource Center

Almost 100,000 individuals contact the STI Resource Center each year looking for information and guidance that they've been unable to find elsewhere. The scenarios posed by our clients run a wide gamut from an HIV+ individual who feels his life is over; a married couple concerned that HSV may prevent them from having children; a widow who's wanting to know how best to talk to her new partner about preventing HIV; a middle aged man who feels condoms are not worth using; a parent of a sexually active teenager who does not understand the importance of Chlamydia testing; or a newly-diagnosed, happily married woman who was told at the time of her herpes diagnosis that she or her husband "had to have been cheating." Through this service ASHA continues empowering the public by providing accurate, scientifically based information and tailoring it to each individual's needs.

The National Cervical Cancer Coalition (NCCC) was founded in 1996 as a grassroots nonprofit organization dedicated to serving women with, or at risk for, cervical cancer and HPV disease. In 2011, NCCC merged with American Social Health Association, a nonprofit with a nearly 100-year history of educating and raising awareness on sexual health issues. The NCCC has thousands of members around the world, and chapters across the U.S. NCCC's sister organization, the Global Initiative Against HPV and Cervical Cancer, works throughout the developing world as a platform to empower people, communities and societies to reduce the disease burden from HPV and cervical cancers.

Websites

ASHA's websites, www.ashastd.org, iwannknow.org and quierosaber.org, and nccc-online.org together receive approximately 2.8 million page views annually.

ASHA's websites are the primary means of interacting with healthcare professionals, patients, and partner organizations throughout the U.S. Our web pages also serve as a critical means of information and support to users around the world who have difficulty accessing clear, non-biased information on sexual health. Websites are regularly updated and offer news, medical information, and interactive electronic forms.

Research Study Recruitment and Referral Services

In addition to its other research capabilities, ASHA has expertise in research study support and enrollment, as well as results counseling and direct consumer response. Coupling this experience with its large range of potential study participants, ASHA successfully provided support to a research study related to HPV and low income women.
